

Narrative Biography

Rick Maxwell

Rick Maxwell, is an internationally recognized artist based in Dallas, Texas. Hailing from Chicago, he moved to Texas in the summer of 1968. Graduated from the University of Dallas, with a Bachelor in Arts in 1971 and Southern Methodist University with a Masters of Fine Arts in 1975. He taught for the Dallas County Community Colleges on four of their seven campuses from 1975 through 2008. He was the recipient of a Minnie Piper Stevens Award for excellence in teaching in 1981 and received a Faculty of the year Award in 1999 from Eastfield College. From 2008 through 2018 he served as Executive Dean of the School of Arts at Brookhaven College.

Maxwells sculptures and drawings have been exhibited widely in museums and galleries throughout the United States and internationally, with exhibitions at institutions including The Dallas Museum of Art, Contemporary Arts Museum Houston, Tong-In Gallery, Seoul South Korea, Austin Museum of Art, Lawndale Art Center and the LA County Museum.

His studio has produced numerous large scale public and private commissions, including for the City of Dallas, Neiman Marcus, Omni Corporation, Exxon Corporation, the Galleria and JW Marriott.

Maxwell's work is held in permanent collections including Atlantic Richfield, the Dallas Museum of Art, Jordon Vineyards, Dallas Colleges and Shady Oaks Country Club.